On the 4th the latter mades an attack on the French in this quarter, on the left bank of the Seine, the result of which ½ a not given. It is again stated that Bourbaki is moving from the cast to join Chausy, and it is believed that Faidherbee is menuavering to unite with and aid the former in his enterprise. A column from Choumy's army, 10,000 strong, is reported moving towards Paris by way of Chartres—doubtless a grand raid, preparatory of a more extensive movement.

datibaldi, also the Army of the North, ander General Faidherbe and General Chauzy, all seem to be making forward movements. As the French advance the people hasten to join the ranks, and increase their naubers rapidly.

Several despatches tell of alleged both French and Prussian defeats, victories and repulses. A despatch from General Chauzy slaims a decided success for the forces under his command, and a flying solumn of General Manteuffel's army is said to have defeated three battalions of Garde Mobiles at Faugret.

The movement on Havre is not abandoned. The General are also in force at Yvetot.—An engagement with the defenders of Havre is imminent.

Count von Bismarch has made haste to applogize to Eugland for seizing British vessels in the Seine. The Prussian commander who ordered the seizure has been dismissed the service, and Prussian remained by the owners of the vessels. Per contra, however, Count Bernstorff, the Prussian Ambassrdor at London, has requested the seizure of a French vessel laden with "telegraph cable," and the Loire for a feek past have been successful for the engagements along the Loire for a great man along to pay in round thalers for any damage claimed by the owners of the vessels. Per contra, however, Count Bernstoria, the Prussia nabassardor at London, has requested the seizure of a French vessel aden with "telegraph cable," and the langists officials are said to have seized her in the Thames on Sunday.

Bordeaux dispatches assert that all of the engagements along the Loire for a week past have been successful for the Prussia have been successful for the Prench, the German reports to the contrary notwithstanding. Near La Chartt. 25 miles southeast of Le Mans, the French saptured 1,200 prisoners. Part of Chaay a rany is now strongly fortified nearly and on spirits about one dollar. The duty on brandy is reduced from three to two centrary notwithstanding. Near La Chartt. 25 miles southeast of Cleans. Three hundred German, it is stated, were recently rowned while attempting with their corps to cross the Loire on the ice.

Despatches have been recived from served different points which agree in the meral statement that the army of the lorth, under General Faidherbe, attackly the seeing of prices of articles of prime needs the pressians near Bapaume, a village sighty-five miles to the northeast of Paris, as the 2d, and after an obstinate beautiful. albata nickle, German silvor and mixed in tals; to watch materials and watch or noments, to silk buttons, to flax, to hairpins, and a few other articles. The change, as far as it goes, is decidedly beneficial. Coming, as it does, at a time of unusual depression, it will afford some relief, by the lessening of prices of articles of prime necessity, to the laboring classes. Next Congress will undoubtedly make a still futher and marked reduction in the duty on all articles which are articles of general consumption.

The Indiana Legislature met on Thursday, and both branches organized by electing Democratic officers. In the Senate, this was effected by the absence of two Republican members, and by two others, usuad Hughes and Elliot, voting with the Democrats. After organizing, a resolution was adopted declaring Benson, one of the Republican Senators, not entitled to vote, on the ground of bribery and fraud in his election, and his case was referred to a select committee. This, with the action of the two botting Republicans, gives the Democrats three majority in the Senate. The Republican Senators are so much excited, that it is rumored that they will resign and go home.

clock strikes twelve ! Old Year adieu,

To make you, now, my good confessor, I liked, not much, your predecessor, For he had failings many a score, Which by your leave, I'll number o'er, So now, if you would hear me mention Ills acts and deeds, just give attention: And treasure what I now relate That you may profit by his fate.

Just at the start of his career He pledged to all abundant cheer, And high our expectations rose That good results he'd soon disclose

In foreign lands the toesin sounded, And patriots to their standards bound With stern resolve and purpose high To strike for truth and liberty. France's fields are drenched in blood As firm her gallant warriors stand Without any aid 'gainst fire and sword And if she wins the victory Her gailant sons will not be free. Napoleon's pledge is unredeem'd And what so full of promise seem'd And buoyant hope to the oppress'd Has left their wrongs still unredress'd, Still subject to a tyrants will And doomed to despotism still, Oh! when shall liberty unbind The chains that fetter human mind And set the captive millions free To share a nobler destiny?

And though the gust of passion wild is still, and all is calm and mild, Opinion now is taking form

'Tis but the calm before the storm, That Europe in her might, Is arming for the final fight, And wee untold since earth began Will soon become the lot of man.

To where the occident reveals A land more glorious than the sun E'er cast his brilliant light upon. E'er cast his brilliant light upon, A land with myriad blessings crown'd Where equal rights and laws abound, Where freemen tread with pride the soft Nor tremble at a tyrant's nod. Land of the free, home of the brave, No power can e'er thy sone enslave. What does the horoscope present Of this our western continent? But let us first our vision cast Upon the record of the past,
And one by one its pages turn,
'Till we each moment's hist'ry learn.

Our barns with plenty have been fill d, And labor its reward received, And want and penury relieved. Health's richest blessings have been given To all by a benignant heaven.

Now look to you proud Capitol Where faction holds in abject thrall A nation's representatives! And while each section madly strive For mastery, the public went is broken on the iron wheel Of party animosity
And sectional malignity! And sectional maniputy:

Oh! that the shade of Washington
Might from his blest abode look down,
And one glance of with ring scorn
Rebuke the hate of faction born, And with his patriotic fire His sons degenerate inspire!

Here let our retrospection end, For here the past and present blend, And into Lethe's stream be cast The sum of all the ill that's past. Kind patrons since you've heard me through I now will bid you all adieu, May plenty crown your every board, And health her blessings still afford, And when your cup o'erflows with joy, Pray don't forget the Canninn Boy.
